

Social Provision within the British Community

The British Community (BC) will provide social and community services which are currently provided by the UK government.

These will include the provision of a universal deposit in Brits to each resident in the BC. It will provide a universal standard income in Brits for each resident in the BC. It will periodically and unilaterally cancel all debt in Brits to those that have it.

The BC will ensure by all means available to it that its residents are well-nourished.

The BC attaches particular importance to the permanent solution of homelessness within its boundaries and the provision of accommodation for its residents.

The BC accepts the urgent need to provide full and free health care within its boundaries, and it will take steps to successively improve these services.

The BC will provide education services to residents in the BC. These will always be free. The provision of teaching and education administrative services will be paid for in Brits.
